SkyWarn Storm Spotter Class Offered in Santa Rosa County

The National Weather Service, Mobile/Pensacola Forecast Office will be offering a basic storm spotter class at the Santa Rosa County Division of Emergency Management located at 4499 Pine Forest Road in Milton on Thursday, October 8 at 6 p.m. This free class will provide participants with SkyWarn training, which is a voluntary program developed by the National Weather Service. SkyWarn training introduces citizens to the unique relationship they can have with the National Weather Service in providing “real time” updates about current weather situations in our community.

Trained spotters learn about the physical structure of severe storms and how to identify the most likely areas for severe weather development. They will also learn about visual clues that may precede tornado development and learn to distinguish between real tornadoes and look-a-likes.

To register for the class or more information, please contact emergency management at (850) 983-5360.
